FLOOR DEBATE

January 23, 2003 LB 107

SENATOR JENSEN: Right.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: How many are there altogether?

SENATOR JENSEN: I don't know that number, Senator.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: How many are not religion related?

SENATOR JENSEN: I can get that number and have it for you in a moment.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Okay. Enough of them are so that you could say they probably, together and collectively, have a line of communication to the Almighty. Would you agree?

SENATOR JENSEN: I don't know where their communication lies.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Well, if Psalms says the cattle on a thousand hills are his, couldn't he give a few nickels, by the trickle-down method, to these schools that are dedicated to his honor and glory? Couldn't he do that if he chose to?

SENATOR JENSEN: I...

SENATOR CHAMBERS: If he chose to.

SENATOR JENSEN: I believe God could do anything he wanted to do, yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: And...well, you gave a name which I didn't. But if he chooses not to, is it because he's dissatisfied with the way these schools are functioning?

SENATOR JENSEN: I don't know what the reason might be.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Does it...

SPEAKER BROMM: Time.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...mean he does not support his...oh, thank you, Mr. Speaker.
